Detailed Action

1.) Claims 68 and 78 are objected to for containing typographical errors. In the last two lines of claim 68 and in the last line of claim 78, the term “position section” appears to be incorrect. Probably positive section was intended. Applicant should correct or clarify this situation.

2.) The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

3.) Claims 68-87 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. The two independent claims 68 and 78, are both drawn to power supplies which include a “bi-directional, free wheeling circuit” in parallel with the gap between the welding electrode and workpiece and which both further include a center tapped inductor. Claim 78 further includes two large capacitors connected in a specific manner. None of the embodiments disclosed in the original specification have all of these features. Only the embodiment of figure 1 shows the bi-directional freewheeling circuit, but this embodiment does not disclose a center tapped inductor as claimed. The embodiments of figures 8 and 9 disclose center tapped inductors, but these embodiments do not show the bi-directional freewheeling circuit in parallel with the arc gap as claimed. Note that figure 9 shows a bi-directional freewheeling circuit associated with elements 350 and 360, but this circuit cannot be considered to be in parallel with the gap between elements “E” and “W”. Claims 68 and 78 are therefore considered to be directed to new matter not disclosed in the original specification. The other claims are directed to new matter insofar as they depend from independent claims 68 and 78.

4.) The drawings are objected to under 37 CFR 1.83(a). The drawings must show every feature of the invention specified in the claims. Therefore, the “bi-directional, free wheeling circuit” in parallel with the gap between the welding electrode and workpiece combined with the center tapped inductor as in claims 68 and 78 must be shown or the feature(s) canceled from the claim(s). No new matter should be entered.

A proposed drawing correction or corrected drawings are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

5.) The patent to Daspit (3,728,516) is cited to show a prior art switching mode power supply with center tapped capacitors, two switches, and center tapped inductors. The Japanese document no. JP64-53773 is a document cited in the parent case. The patent to Stava (6,600,134) is the patent that issued from the parent of the instant application.
